

Descriptive Writing – Example #1

The big idea for this unit was relationships and I had the students create a graphic organizer to picture relationships. The graphic organizer needed to include written and pictorial information.

Students broke into groups to share their organizers and commented on the usefulness of their model as well as how others might use it.

This was one of many activities that students worked together to complete during this unit.